REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT, FOR THE YEAR 1862.

It is with feelings of warm satisfaction that the Committee of Management present their Report for the last year to the Directors and friends of the Institution. Under the direction of its present able staff of Officers it has continued to prosper in every aspect of its character.

The Committee wish especially to call public attention to the statistical tables published herewith, by which it will be seen how successful Dr. Wing has been in the care and cure of the afflicted persons entrusted to his charge.

The financial tables will show, that although no expense has been spared in any of the departments of management, yet the Institution, at the close of this last year, is financially in a much better position than it was at the close of 1861.

The Committee think that they may now congratulate the friends of the Asylum on the result of the experiment first made, as they believe, in this Institution, of a self-supporting Lunatic Hospital: It will be seen from the tables that they already devote more than £600 per annum towards the maintenance of that class of patients who, though above the pauper class, are yet (perhaps on that very account) even greater objects of Christian benevolence; for on whom does the visitation of insanity fall with more oppressive weight than when it visits the family of the lower members of the middle classes of society? From the date of that truly Christian Act of Parliament, which made public provision for all pauper lunatics, it has been the never-ceasing desire of your Committee to extend their help to those classes. That desire, they have every reason to believe, will very speedily be gratified, and they may now look forward with confidence to having an increasing surplus each succeeding year, from the payments of the high-class patients, which may be devoted to the relief of those in humbler and poorer circumstances, who are received at the lowest charge as private patients.

Their wishes in this direction have been hitherto necessarily restrained by the heavy expenses entailed upon them for the reception of all the county pauper lunatics: Large sums of money have been annually expended on building and furnishing for that purpose. A portion, too, of the income has been spent on the new chapel.

These expenses will now cease, and your Committee have much pleasure in announcing that they have entered into a contract with the County Justices to take charge of all their lunatics for the next three years, at a weekly maximum charge of 12s. per head for their board and lodging; their cure, if possible, their care at all events. This is a reduction of 6d. each per week from what it has hitherto been, amounting to a loss of income of £350 per annum to the Institution; and they hope to be able to make a still further reduction in the charge for maintaining the county paupers in the course of a year or two, if the work they have in hand still continues, with the Divine blessing, to prosper as it has hitherto done.

The Superintendent's very full and able Report makes it unnecessary for the Committee of Management to do more than glance at a few remaining points in the favourable picture which is herewith presented to the public.

The visit to Llandudno, though perhaps a somewhat hazardous, certainly a novel, experiment, was found to answer admirably; and that, together with the other amusements designed for the inmates of the Asylum, reflect great credit on Dr. Wing.

The Chaplain, in his excellent Report, has made such full reference to the chapel that your Committee will not allude further to it, except to inform the subscribers that application has been already made for consecration to the Bishop of the Diocese.

Since the application to the Bishop, legal difficulties have appeared, which render it necessary for the Directors to take counsel's opinion as to the effect of consecration; whether or no it would give a right of entry to the public services of the church to the inhabitants of the parish in which the Asylum is situate. In case such a right on the part of the public should be consequent on the consecration of the chapel, it would probably be decided in the present uncertain state of the law, to be content with a license from the Bishop.

It is due to their indefatigable Secretary to notice the ingenuity with which he has contrived to warm the chapel very efficiently by availing himself of the surplus steam from the boilers in the house. There is reason to believe that, by this clever suggestion, which has been carried out at a trifling cost, under his own superintendence the Institution has been saved a considerable expense.

The great success which has attended the introduction of machinery for the supply of water from springs on our own ground, and for carrying it up to the highest parts of the building, should also be noticed. When it is known that the total quantity of water in daily use at the Asylum is about 12,000 gallons, a supply which, at the lowest price now offered by the Water Company at Northampton, would have amounted to an annual charge upon their funds of £150, the Committee feel that the subject is one worthy of mention in their Report.

The Farm has prospered, and has not only provided the inmates of the establishment with healthy employment and recreation, but has proved a material source of profit.

In conclusion, the Committee of Management beg very earnestly that the representations which they have now made of the success and well-doing of the establishment may be tested by personal observation : they believe that frequent visits from enlightened persons, capable of appreciating the efforts made within its walls for the alleviation of the greatest of all human ills, and of suggesting improvements and alterations, would be of very great use. They regret that the monthly visitors so seldom attend to the duties of their important office ; and they take this opportunity of inviting the magistrates, both of the county and borough, to look in frequently, and see that the Committee of Management discharge efficiently the responsible office they have now contracted to undertake in behalf of the pauper lunatics.

WM. SMYTH, Vice-Chairman.

MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

TO THE DIRECTORS OF THE NORTHAMPTON GENERAL
LUNATIC ASYLUM.

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

The period has now arrived when it becomes my duty to lay before you a report, setting forth those occurrences which have taken place in the Northampton General Lunatic Asylum during the past year which may be worthy of notice, and to detail the result of our operations for the same date. In doing so, it is with pleasure I am able to announce that it has been a year of prosperity, and, as regards the patients, one of tranquility, free from any serious accident or other untoward event. There has been no epidemic or contagious disease, and the health of the inmates has been generally good, though there is a large proportion of aged, feeble and epileptic patients.

The number of patients on the books of the Institution on January 1st, 1862, was 357, 96 of these being private patients, 46 males and 50 females; and 261 paupers, 127 males and 134 females. The admissions during the year have been 107, viz., 29 private patients, 17 males and 12 females; and 78 paupers, 44 males and 34 females. 59 were discharged, 25 males and 34 females, 10 male and 12 female private patients, and 15 male and 22 female paupers: of these 45 were recovered, 18 males and 27 females. 10 were relieved, 3 males and 7 females. 4 were not improved, all males. 34 have died, 2 male and one female private patients, 16 male and 15 female paupers. There remained in the Asylum on the 31st of December, 1862, 371 patients, viz., 99 of the private class, 50 males and 49 females; and 272 paupers, 141 males and 131 females: the increase during the year being 14, 3 of the private and 11 of the pauper class, the females being 4 less in number, and the males 18 more, than at the corresponding period of the previous year. The number of admissions were 7 more than in the year 1861, the most remarkable circumstance connected with them being the preponderance of males over females in the proportion of 61 to 46. This is contrary to what usually obtains, but I am unacquainted with any cause to which it can be attributed. Of the discharges the recoveries form a very satisfactory quota, but it will be observed the females greatly exceed the males, notwithstanding the greater number of the latter admitted, as well as the larger number actually under treatment. This is in accordance with the experience in asylums generally, and sustains the conclusion which has been commonly arrived at by medical psychologists, that insanity is far more curable in the female than in the male sex. Of those who were discharged unrecovered, all excepting three were able to return to the care and society of their friends; one was sent to another asylum, and two, who had been private patients, were re-admitted into this Institution as paupers. The deaths amounted to exactly the same figures as in the year before, but the daily average number of patients in the Asylum, and the total under treatment, having been somewhat greater, the per centage of deaths has been a fraction smaller: all arose from natural causes, and many were persons of advanced age. No coroner's inquest was held, and there is not any one case amongst them which appears to me to call for remark in this report. The number of patients on the books has fluctuated considerably, the lowest being 352, and the highest 389.

As heretofore, occupation has continued to be a prominent feature in the treatment pursued, and the progress made in this respect has been satisfactory; the same remark will apply to the instruction and amusement of the patients. Lectures, and readings from standard works and the writings of well-known authors, have been frequently given, and in this respect we have been indebted to several friends unconnected with the establishment. The magic lantern has been enriched by additional slides. The usual weekly assemblies have regularly taken place, and occasional dramatic representations have been performed. In the summer months, cricket, bowls and croquet contributed their share of healthful recreation.

The removal of those afflicted with mental alienation from the family circle and home associations, is, in the majority of cases, both salutary and necessary; indeed, in many instances, all attempts to combat with the malady successfully would, without it, be utterly unavailing. Yet it cannot be denied that it is a severe measure, and is frequently felt by the patients themselves as a great hardship. Much mental suffering is caused by the severance of the ties of kindred and friendship, and the loss of the pleasures of domestic life, while friends can only reconcile the course to their feelings by a stern sense of duty, and often does it try them to the utmost firmly to carry out what they know to be the best. How incumbent, then, is it upon those who undertake the charge of the insane, to smooth these asperities as far as possible, and to omit no means in their power of rendering life agreeable to the unfortunate objects of their care, and to place within their reach every resource of health and happiness consistent with safety and correct treatment ! The benefits to be derived from change of air and scene, from the interest created by the novel and the beautiful, the relief from the monotony of the daily routine of life, and the invigorating agency of the sea breeze, are universally acknowledged and eagerly sought for by the sane whose means place these advantages at their command. They frequently form the first means resorted to on the appearance of mental derangement in the higher class of patients, and there can be no question of their beneficial tendency upon the mental and bodily state of asylum residents, provided the cases are selected with judgment. Acting upon the foregoing principles, a party of patients from this Asylum were conveyed in June last to Llandudno, in North Wales ; they were 35 in number—19 males and 16 females, all private patients, with the exception of one pauper female. The journey there was accomplished on the whole pleasantly and without accident, the only drawback being a delay at Chester, in consequence of an irregularity in the trains, which caused the party to reach their destination at a later hour than was desirable. They, however, soon settled down comfortably in their new abode. The arrival created some excitement and opposition amongst the residents and visitors of the place ; no matter of surprise, perhaps, when we consider the notions prevalent amongst the public respecting those who are suffering from diseases of the mind, however erroneous such notions may appear to those accustomed to their care and treatment. This commotion, however, soon subsided, and the party were left to enjoy, without molestation, the many advantages the place afforded. It was delightful to see those who had (some of them for many years) been restricted to a narrow range, climbing the mountain or wandering along the beach, collecting specimens illustrative of natural history, or objects of interest and curiosity ; contemplating the magnificent scenery ; enjoying the bracing effects of the sea bath, or the invigorating breeze, while gliding on the surface of the water in the sail boat ; exercise on foot, in rambling excursions into the neighbourhood ; riding on horses, ponies or donkeys ; drives in vehicles of various descriptions ; pic-nic parties ; railway trips to localities of historical or scientific interest, or of scenic beauty, including the ancient town and castle of Conway, the city of Bangor, and the Menai Straits, with the wonderful tubular and suspension bridges, parts of the Isle of Anglesea, and the mountain of Pen-Maen-Mawr, of which several made the ascent. Minor enjoyments were not lost sight of. Shopping and marketing were gratifications to some, especially the ladies. The house commanding a near and uninterrupted view of the sea, the telescope was brought into frequent requisition, and many observations were taken of the passing vessels. In bad weather recourse was had to music, books from the library, and various in-door games and amusements. Prayers were read regularly morning and evening, and the usual Sunday Divine services were not neglected ; the Chaplain being there a part of the time, and when he was absent, the Morning and Evening Services of the Church, with a sermon, were read either by the Superintendent or the House Surgeon. Some were allowed to attend the churches and chapels in the town and neighbourhood, not the least of their enjoyments being a walk to attend the services at St. Tudno's Church, on the Great Orme's Head, from which a most delightful view of the surrounding sea and country can be obtained, and the walk there abounds with glimpses of the finest scenery. This trip was undertaken with the unanimous approbation of the Committee of Management, and received also the unqualified approval of the Commissioners in Lunacy. All returned home without a single accident of the most trifling character, and without any circumstance whatever having occurred to cause a regret that the project had been set on foot and carried out ; nor was the conduct of any such as to give reasonable ground of complaint to the most fastidious. When the scale upon which this expedition was arranged is considered, as also the distance of Northampton from the sea-board, and the many miles between that town and Llandudno, it deserves to be reckoned a great success, and an advance in the treatment of the insane. Nor was it without results, not less than seven having been able to return to their friends ; many were much benefited in physical health, and improved in mental condition. It may not be amiss to mention that each individual was weighed before leaving Northampton, and again on return, and that the aggregate result was a considerable gain in weight ; a few were a trifle lighter, but many gained largely. It is but due that I should express my approbation of the manner in which all the officers, attendants, nurses, and servants engaged in this undertaking carried out my wishes and directions. They, one and all, seemed to put forth their best energies, and to vie with each other to promote the objects of the enterprise. The opposition that was at first evinced by the authorities and inhabitants of Llandudno, caused me some uneasiness, more especially the strong language used at a public meeting which I was requested to attend, and the threats of forcible expulsion then held out. Reflection, however, having convinced me that my position was both legally and morally right, I came to the determination to uphold the rights of those committed to my care without wavering, and the following letter was addressed to the Chairman at an adjourned meeting, thinking such a course preferable to another personal attendance :—

“ Llandudno, June 4th, 1862.

“ Reverend Sir,—The suggestions made by the Improvement

Commissioners of the town of Llandudno, at their special meeting, held yesterday, have been carefully considered. In reference thereto, I am desired by Dr. Wing, the physician in charge of the party now at 8, Gloddaeth-crescent, to observe that whilst he would, on the one hand, always wish to pay every proper deference to lawfully constituted authorities, he cannot, on the other hand, lose sight of the serious responsibility entailed upon him of protecting the legitimate rights and interests of those committed to his care ; Legally, he cannot for one moment doubt his position ; the most humane provisions of an Act of Parliament have been strictly observed in every step that has been taken,—morally, he feels that the highest and most philanthropic motives have actuated those who have given their legal sanction to the undertaking, for what can be more praiseworthy than to attempt, by every legitimate means, to alleviate the position of the most afflicted portion of the human family ? Taking, therefore, the circumstances of the case into consideration, the ill effects that might follow upon the hasty removal, after so long a journey, to several of the party who are old and infirm, and the hopes of absolute restoration to health a sojourn at the sea-side would give to many others, Dr. Wing desires most respectfully, but yet most firmly, to inform the Improvement Commissioners that their views cannot be acceded to. At the same time he would reiterate the assurance that every precaution has been, and will continue to be, taken to make the stay at Llandudno as little noticeable as possible. The Improvement Commissioners should be fully informed that it is only by taking the attention of the officers in charge of the party from the exercise of their constant and onerous responsibilities that any circumstance, which it would be reasonable to complain of, could be anticipated. If they are allowed peaceably and quietly to carry out their arrangements they cannot believe otherwise than that the inhabitants of Llandudno will come to look upon the sojourn of the strangers now amongst them in a very different light to what could be expected from the feeling displayed at the meeting before referred to ; an adverse display of feeling which was not for one moment anticipated, for it was fully believed that the time for such sentiments had long since passed away.

“ I have the honour to be, Rev. Sir,

“ Your most obedient servant,

“ JOHN GODFREY,

“ Secretary to the Northampton General
Lunatic Asylum.

“ To the Rev. John Morgan.”

The circumstances having been communicated to the Commissioners in Lunacy, the following letter was received from them, a copy of which was forwarded to Mr. Morgan:—

“Office of Commissioners in Lunacy,

“19, Whitehall-place, S.W., 4th June, 1862.

“Sir,—The Commissioners in Lunacy direct me to thank you for the letter in which you inform them that you have obtained at Llandudno, in North Wales, comfortable lodging accommodation for thirty-five patients belonging to the Northampton Lunatic Hospital, the Governors of that Institution having humanely resolved to give these poor persons the benefit of sea air and change of scene for a short period. The Commissioners observe the very proper precautions you have taken to prevent any possible irregularity or eccentricity on the part of any of the patients, by providing fifteen attendants to wait upon them during their stay at Llandudno, and they cannot regard as at all serious or likely to be persisted in such threatened opposition on the part of the Town Commissioners of Llandudno as you refer to in your letter. So long as the patients conduct themselves with propriety no pretence can possibly be urged for excluding them from what they are as fully entitled to as any other persons, and to the unrestricted enjoyment of which their affliction gives them a special and additional claim. The Commissioners may remind you that a plan precisely similar to that which you have adopted was carried into effect by Dr. Bucknill a few years ago. He took from the Devon Asylum a party of forty-two patients (which he changed from time to time, always retaining that number) to Exmouth, and although some alarm was felt by the residents when the proposal was first made, no subsequent inconvenience was experienced; no individual underwent the remotest annoyance of any description; and though the patients continued for several months to be taken out daily in parties for walks along the shore, they ceased in a few days to attract any attention, and their final departure was a subject of regret to the inhabitants.

“I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

“HENRY E. RAWLINS,

(For the Secretary.)

“To Dr. E. Wing.”

Should this example be followed in future years, the knowledge and experience gained on this occasion will be found useful, and lead to improvements in the arrangements. Though all was very satisfactory, hints were obtained which may be turned to account. Before quitting this subject it may be desirable to mention that the expenses of this trip were provided for by the contributions of the friends of the patients forming the party, the Committee of Management granting such a sum towards them as was considered an equivalent to the amount the same parties would have cost the Institution had they remained within its boundaries. No extra charge, therefore, fell upon the funds of the Asylum. The actual proportions were two-thirds by the friends of the patients, and the remaining third by the establishment.

Many improvements have been effected during the past year conducive to the welfare and comfort of the inmates of the Institution. Amongst the most important may be mentioned the increased steam power and boiler accommodation. This, though effected at considerable cost, will amply repay the outlay. In place of deficiency there will now be all that can be required for the numerous purposes for which this power is continually needed, such as the supply of hot water for baths and other purposes, heating the drying closets in the laundry, warming various parts of the building; as also the chapel, which by this means can be kept at a comfortable temperature, in a far more safe and economical way than were the heating apparatus, with an independent furnace, constructed within the building itself. These alterations have also afforded opportunities for improvements in the smith's shop, the stowage of coals and other matters in this department. The great draught created by the new chimney enables fuel to be utilized which would otherwise be wasted, while the smoke from it is but little, or is carried to such a distance as to be no longer a nuisance or detrimental to the laundry department. The large increase made to the airing ground on the men's side, with its ornamental mound, giving an extensive view over the walls into the surrounding country, the sun shade, and the enclosure for rabbits, guinea pigs, and other domestic pets. The planting and laying out of this ground are great additions to this part of the establishment. The wind pump on the Farm will, when the new tanks are completed, and the newly-discovered spring of water is made use of, be found of great advantage to the Institution. Considerable progress has been made during the year in painting, colouring, and decorating the wards; though much still remains to be done, there will be but little cause of complaint if an advance at the same ratio continues. The chapel may be now said to be finished, and only awaits the ceremony of consecration, if such should be decided upon, to be made available for the celebration of Divine service. This I cannot but contemplate with the greatest satisfaction, for reasons set forth in former reports. The building is an ornament to the Institution, of which the Directors and all connected with it may feel proud. Of the beneficial influence it will exert on the minds of many of the inmates, I entertain no doubt. It is to be hoped it will be furnished with a good bell and a well-toned organ. The present inconvenient custom of conducting Divine service in the wards has now existed so long, and been so often commented upon, that it would be needless to enlarge on the topic on the present occasion ; but its final discontinuance will be a matter for congratulation.

The Farm has been productive, and brought in a very fair profit, and has, as heretofore, afforded much healthful occupation to a portion of the inmates by whom its cultivation has been carried on, under the direction of their attendant. By levelling, filling up, and reforming portions of ground, improvements have been effected which have brought it into better order and neater trim. But little trace can be now seen of the old road, the clay pits, and the site of the brick-kiln.

In the early part of the year the office of House Surgeon became vacant. The election of Dr. Williams has been most satisfactory to myself. I have found in him an able assistant and an agreeable colleague, and the Institution has acquired a pains-taking officer. To the other officers my acknowledgments are due for the manner in which their duties have been discharged, to which they have given the same attention, and brought the same ability, of which I have favourably spoken on former anniversaries ; and it is with pleasure I can mention in general terms of approval the conduct of the attendants, nurses and servants. There have been exceptions, as will always be the case with a numerous staff, but I feel I can say that, on the whole, the establishment is served in an efficient manner. The duties of an attendant on the insane are very onerous and trying, and require a combination of qualifications difficult to meet with in the same individual. To control and direct, to wait upon and serve, and act as a companion, are arduous duties, and sometimes not easily reconciled. The unceasing vigilance required, and the complete command of temper necessary, make those who are faithful to their trust, and efficient in their work, deserving of reward in the shape of liberal payment, and considerate treatment. The plan of employing female nurses to attend the aged and sick men I have found fully answer my expectations. The improved appearance of this class, their increased tranquility, and the much greater aspect of comfort about them, are very manifest.

During the last session of Parliament several alterations were made in the Lunacy Laws, the most important of which, as affecting this Institution, are—

1. A provision legalizing contracts between the Directors of a Lunatic Hospital and the Justices of a county, for the reception of the lunatics of the county into such hospital, and enabling a sum to be charged on the county rate, as rent for the use of such hospital, not exceeding in amount one-fourth of the whole sum paid for the maintenance and care of these paupers, and which now falls on the common funds of the union to which they belong.

2. A power given to Committees of Management to order the payment of money for the maintenance of patients out on trial, equal, if necessary, to the amount paid for them when resident in the Asylum. This power, judiciously exercised, will prove very beneficial. Patients on leaving an Asylum have much difficulty in procuring employment, their friends are too poor to support them, and the customary grants made from the Poor Law funds are inadequate to their requirements; the consequences of which are frequent relapses from poverty and hardship.

3. Private patients may be transferred to the class of pauper patients, should circumstances so require, and vice versā, without alteration in the original certificates. This will save trouble and complicated formalities, and has already been acted upon in this Asylum.

4. Changes have been made in the forms of the documents required on the admission of a patient, and I would take this opportunity of remarking upon the imperfect manner in which these forms are frequently filled up, necessitating amendment and causing much trouble, which might be easily avoided if attention could be paid carefully and literally to carry out the instructions given in the marginal and foot notes accompanying these forms.

In conclusion, I desire sincerely to thank the Committee of Management for the kindness, consideration and support, I have received at their hands on all occasions.

I have the honour to remain,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

EDWIN WING, M.D.,

Medical Superintendent.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN,

Another year of pastoral labour amongst the most grievously afflicted of God's children having now terminated, I have the honour to submit for your kind consideration my sixth annual report.

The Prayers, Psalms and Lessons for the day, concluding with the Litany and a sermon, have comprised our Sunday morning service, and the Prayers, Psalms and Lessons, with a sermon, that of the evening, throughout the year. A psalm or hymn is also sung before, and the "Gloria Patri" after, each of the sermons. With very few exceptions, the conduct of the patients when assembled for Divine worship has been orderly and devout, many of them evincing a deep interest in our religious services by reading in a reverent and audible voice the responses, kneeling when prayers are being said, standing on all proper occasions, and uniting their voices with those of their more fortunate brethren in singing psalms of praise and thanksgiving to the common Father and Protector of all. The average attendance on Sundays has been 186, viz., 85 males and 101 females; these numbers, satisfactory as they appear to me to be (knowing, as I do, that the attendance at our religious services is voluntary on the part of the patients), would have been still larger but for the absence, throughout the month of June, of 34 or 35 of our private friends at Llandudno. The same cause has operated upon the numerical average of attendance at our daily prayers; this latter has been 86, viz., 40 males and 46 females. On Good Friday 172 patients, viz., 81 males and 91 females; and on Christmas-day 175, viz., 77 males and 98 females, were present at the celebration of Divine worship. The Holy Communion has been administered on the first Sunday in every month, also on Easter-day and Christmas-day, the average number of communicants being 16, viz., 3 males and 13 females.

I have regularly visited the several wards, animating the faint-hearted, instructing the ignorant, endeavouring to remove false doubts and fears, striving, by God's grace, to dispel the darkness in which so many a poor soul appears to be enthralled, by inculcating the feeling of hope and self-respect, in the place of despair and self-reproach.

The usual daily lectures have been continued, when, on all convenient occasions, I have said prayers and read a portion of Scripture, followed by a plain exposition to the patients assembled in No. 1 and 4 female and in the male infirmary wards. From the interest with which these visits are looked forward to, and the quiet and attentive behaviour of those present, I cannot doubt but that much good is effected by this simple method of exciting interest and giving instruction. The singing class, composed of female attendants and patients, for the practice of sacred music, and the female patients' class for instruction in reading, writing and mental arithmetic, have, with the kind assistance of the matron, been conducted by me as heretofore.

A liberal supply of books has been given out from the library to those who expressed a wish to have them, and where such was not the case a number of interesting publications has been placed in the various wards, in order that when a disposition for reading returned, that disposition might be gratified. 906 volumes have been circulated by me, in addition to four daily London, eight weekly newspapers, and about 30 copies of weekly periodicals.

It will occasion but little surprise to a reflecting person, that men brooding over misfortune, with spirits depressed and energies relaxed, despair having gained the mastery over them, should have but little desire for gaining knowledge. They become apathetic and morose, they cannot fix their attention on a book, and there appears but seldom any sustained continuity in their train of thought. Nevertheless, amidst all this gloom and despondency, we must not be discouraged; the enshrouding darkness is sometimes dispersed, lucid intervals succeed, and an interest is expressed in surrounding objects. It is for moments like these that we anxiously wait, when, by a word in season and well-directed sympathy, we hope by degrees, as the physical health of the patient is restored, to be no mean auxiliaries to the physician in restoring to the mind a healthy balance, and enabling the poor sufferer the better to resist the further trials that may await him in this lower world.

On the evening of the 3rd of November, at the request of Dr. Wing, I had the pleasure of reading to a large party of male and female patients, "The Deserted Village," by Dr. Goldsmith, and the humorous "Election Scene," from Pickwick. The frequent expressions of delight from my audience were very gratifying, and afforded ample proof that my humble efforts to amuse were not altogether futile. I shall always be glad to repeat this or similar means of recreation.

The summer trip by rail to Llandudno of thirty-five of our patients must not be passed over in silence, inasmuch as, by your kindness, I was permitted for ten days to be one of the party, my place here being kindly supplied by the Rev. F. P. Lawson, the Rev. H. L. Elliot, and the Rev. J. Jones. Full particulars of this very interesting event will doubtless be given in the Superintendent's Report, but I may, perhaps, be allowed to say that a better conducted or more well-behaved company (allowing for the peculiarities of the malady), I never witnessed. During my stay, I daily said prayers, morning and evening, in the dining-room, where the patients were assembled. I daily walked out with some of them, took my meals with them, joined in their more extended excursions into the surrounding neighbourhood, and was occasionally mistaken for one of them. On Sunday I gave two full services in our marine residence, and in the afternoon walked with two of our gentlemen to the parish church. The arrangements made for the comfort of this interesting party were complete in every respect, and I feel satisfied that this philanthropic excursion has left behind it (with one exception only) nothing but pleasing reminiscences.

The long wished-for edifice shortly to be dedicated to the service of God is now completed, and in all its simple grandeur reminds us that temporal good is not the only object of this Institution, but that the eternal well-being of our afflicted fellow-creatures is equally an object of anxiety and care in the minds of those to whom its management is entrusted. That God's blessing may attend this and every good work in which you are engaged is the hearty prayer of,

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

HALFORD R. BURDETT, M.A., Chaplain.

APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION.

Prior to sending a Patient into the Lunatic Asylum, it is very desirable that a communication should be made to the Medical Superintendent, who will furnish the Applicant with the Forms required under the Act of Parliament.

Patients chargeable to Parishes in the County of Northampton are admissible on the production of proper Forms, provided there be room in the House, which should be previously ascertained.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

The Terms for Board, Lodging, Washing, Medical Advice, Medicines, and all other necessaries, Wine and Clothing excepted, are from £1. 1s. to £3. 3s. per week, according to the accommodation desired, and must be paid quarterly in advance. In special cases, requiring extraordinary attendance and accommodation, terms higher than the above may be proposed by the Superintendent, subject to the approval of the Committee, at their next Meeting, or the Committee may, in instances where they think proper, reduce the above rates.

For any further particulars, apply, either personally or by letter, to the Medical Superintendent.

As the Friends of Patients may sometimes find it difficult to procure a proper person to conduct them to the Asylum, an experienced Attendant will, on application, be provided.
